Nomination Form

Notes for referees

Nominations can come from a variety of sources, including head teachers, colleagues, governors, advisers, Institute branch representatives, parents and students (past or present). One of the referees is required to be a staff member from the nominee's school. The second referee need not be from a different establishment, but the selection panel would find another perspective very helpful.

Supporting statements

A supporting statement from each referee should outline the reasons for making the nomination. The statement, which should not exceed approximately 400 words, could include comments on Teaching Excellence, Support for Colleagues, Work Beyond the Classroom, and Work with the Wider Education Community.

In addition, further evidence from colleagues and pupils should be provided.

The panel is looking for teachers who:

- are outstanding teachers of physics;
- have inspired pupils and colleagues;
- have made physics/science exciting and relevant;
- have made an effort beyond the call of the timetable;
- have professionally engaged with others in the wider education community.

A minimum of 7 years' teaching experience is typical for those receiving the awards. Remember that all of the teachers nominated for awards are very good teachers. The selection panel is looking for those who are outstanding.
