General information

The information in this booklet was compiled by requesting up-to-date information from the various departments and/or by searching the departmental websites. To the best of our knowledge, the information in this booklet is considered to be accurate at the time of publication.

Further information about higher-education institutions with a provision for physics in the UK and Ireland can be obtained from the Higher Education and Research section of the Institute's website at www.iop.org.

The Institute of Physics is a leading scientific society promoting physics and bringing physicists together for the benefit of all. It has a worldwide membership of around 40 000 comprising physicists from all sectors, as well as those with an interest in physics. It works to advance physics research, application and education; and engages with policy makers and the public to develop awareness and understanding of physics. Its publishing company, IOP Publishing, is a world leader in professional scientific communications.
