"The skills that I developed by studying physics have provided a perfect grounding for a career in law. It has helped me to think critically and creatively. Drafting contracts and negotiating with other lawyers really isn’t so different to writing physics reports and debating theories."

EDWARD